LinHES - Bug # 133: mysql message

Status:	Closed	Priority:	Normal

Description:	During the second boot, a message displayed about needing to set up a password for mysql. It was not up long enough to copy the path and howto statement but it doesn't seem to be required as the system appears to be working. Maybe a false test somewhere?

Not a false test, but also messages that should not be appear and will be removed. These appear to have crept in on the last mysql update.
